Hello,

I am Lark Francis and Mom to C1C Austin Francis! I am also the creator of WWW.USAFACOMMUNITY.COM!

We have had a tremendous response with nearly 1300 members thus far in since in the short time it has open.

Over 700 of those members are from the class of 2013 parents, cadets, friends and family!

This is a support info in resource site for the entire USAFA community and allow all aspects of the community to be under one roof so there is no need to spread out all over the internet for the same support and info that can be found out on one site. The site is also set up to allow groups of the larger community to forum their own private area of discussion similar to social groups. This is very similar to yahoo group but is a better option as it allows the groups to be a part of the larger site while supporting each other in smaller groups have all types of social groups.

This site was created with features that would make it ideal for planning any even that is needed for any aspect of the community, We have the forums, social groups, live chat and more that are set up for the community to organize all their USAFA events. The Official 2013 USAFA Spirit mission is just one event that is totally being organized and planned on the USAFAcommunity site. Here is the link to the thread to find out more info
